

AMARANTH STUDY

Clinical Research study for Mild Cognitive Impairment or mild Alzheimer's disease

SPRI is currently participating in a multi-center, 24-month clinical evaluation of an investigational drug for people suffering from mild cognitive impairment (MCI) or mild Alzheimer's disease (AD). At a minimum, in order to be eligible in this clinical research study, you or someone you know must...

- a) be between the ages of 50 and 85 years,
- b) been diagnosed with MCI or AD and,
- c) have a friend, family member or caregiver who has frequent contact with the participant.

All study-related exams, test, procedures and medication will be provided free of charge. Reasonable compensation of time and travel may be provided.

To volunteer or learn more about participating in this clinical trial, please call SPRI at 718-616-2400.
